This game doesn't worth all this attention.
It's quite simple, unskilled, and like quake3, it will only mesmerize bad players who know nothing about skilled games.

Well, to be honest, I've never played any q3, but what do you mean by 'unskilled'? That you do not need any skills to play the game? I'd disagree if that's the case. I come from a different series of games (Unreal Tournament series), and I find it hard to play w$w against good players. X| thats the general idea, since quake3 engine is now open to the public, just the graphics aren't so you will still need to buy the game.

So basically it's just Quake with shitter graphics. Surely people can afford, what it must be like £5/£10 now, for Q3...

I'd like to point out the fact that it has HEAVILY modified physics and weapon settings so it isn't just "quake 3" with more "suckier" gfx.
I don't particularly like warsow that much but still I had to straighten out the misjudgings.
Warsow surely is more pro than vq3.

Its an Ok game. Its a bit simplistic (just find a gun, jump around and shoot a bit) but its fun and easy to get into.

Did you say it's based on the Q2 engine?

Because it looks more similar to Q3 than Q2, pretty impressive for the Q2 engine.

* 3D Engine based on Qfusion (a modification of Quake 2 GPL engine)

(from <http://www.warsow.net/?page=concept>)

It looks pretty nice, how's the scene around it, many public servers up across europe etc?

Warsow is great fun, its still not back to Quakeworld, but it beats q3/q4 any day...

If that's true, why does just about every single one of the top FPS players in the world play alot of warsow nowadays?

Moving around in warsow when you got a minimum of skill is very funny and quite rewarding, particularly when you frag people around at the same time

For those actually playing the game, i'd suggest giving an eye to that video.

Lovely game, dash (it's kinda like dodge in unreal series) is a great addition to this game imo. You can do walljumps in combination with the 'original' quake movement like strafejumping/bunnyhopping/circlejumping etc.

Another addition to this game is the ability to get two kinds of ammo. The 'weak' ammo is what you get when you pick the actual weapon, next to that, you can also pick up 'strong' ammo for every weapon which obviously gives the gun more impact damage. (E.G; the 'railgun' which is called 'electrobolt' with weak ammo is more like the stakegun in PainKiller, it has a small delay. With strong ammo, it's like the railgun and has instant-hit.)

Just dropping by to share my thoughts about this game that I find the most addictive and simply the greatest first-person shooter I've ever played in my life (I'm an ex counter-strike player, so that might explain the reason though)!

I started Warsow during the time version 0.31 was released, and (if not counting in the minor few-day-breaks) I've played it constantly ever since. What really made me fall in love with it is the immense speed of the game, and the way you can move around so freely. Never before has a free game struck me with such addictive power.

Even though the community around Warsow is rather small, it's extremely friendly and tolerant (there are exceptions, of course) towards other plyers, and is alone a reason to quit that Counter-Strike and move over to Warsow. It IS played on LAN(s) for money prizes, so I'm afraid you can't use that excuse to not play this wonderful game. Team Excello is also hosting online cups with prizes, so make sure to check them out (don't take this as an advertisement, it's not )!

The post isn't too linear and doesn't make much sense whatsoever, but I hope it does help getting someone interested in Warsaw!

PS. If anyone wants to duel me on Warsaw, or wants someone to introduce them to the game, feel free to PM me at any given time

PPS. amarc I'm up for the challenge

Actually, you can play quake 3 for free.

The mod is Rocket arena 3. It's like normal quake but you start with all weapons and dont take damage from rocket jumping and such.
